DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit:

3. Claims 38-40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Natarajan et al.

As to claims 38-40, Natarajan et al. disclose a radio frequency data communication system containing a plurality of roaming terminals 10,12,14,16 and a plurality base stations 26,28 which transmit information packets periodically at each of defined intervals. The plurality of roaming terminals each have a power supply and selectively communicate with the base stations in which the roaming terminals maintain the radio frequency transceiver energized for selected time intervals. Each roaming terminal selectively deactivates its wireless transceiver for a consecutive plurality of defined intervals and then activates its wireless transceiver to allow receiving the information packets (figure 8A, col. 8, line 5 - col. 9, line 54). Natarajan et al. does not specifically disclose the remote terminals as specifically being a data collection terminal. However, since Natarajan et al. disclose the terminals as being data transmission terminals, then it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to apply this technique in a data collection environment for the simple purpose of increasing the battery life of terminals that transfer data collected at different sites. It is considered that the roaming terminals synchronize activation to receive information transmitted by one of the base stations and that these base stations transmit information containing "pending message indications".

Specification

4. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Conclusion

5. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Edward Urban whose telephone number is (703) 305-4385.
